version n.1 of 31-03-2021

On this site we use technology to collect information to improve your online experience. This policy covers the use of cookies and how you can manage them.

We reserve the right to change this policy at any time. Any changes to this policy will be effective upon posting on the website.

Cookies are small text strings that websites visited by the user send to the terminal (usually to the browser), where they are stored and then transmitted to the websites the next time the same user visits.

While browsing on a website, the user may also receive cookies on the terminal that are sent from different websites or web servers -so-called "third parties"- which may contain certain elements (i.e. images, maps, sounds, specific links to pages of other domains) on the site that the user is visiting.

The Controller pays significant attention to the protection of your personal data and, in this document ("Cookie Policy") provides information on the processing of your personal data through cookies. Moreover, the Controller, may also process other personal data and therefore invite you to read the full information accessible on the website.

2. What are Cookies:

Cookies are text files that websites sends to users' terminals (browsers) that allow the website operator to recognize individual visits made by users. Cookies, which are usually present in a very high number in the users' browsers and sometimes with characteristics of wide temporal persistence, are used for different purposes: execution of computer authentication, session monitoring, memorization of information on specific configurations regarding the users who access the server, etc..

While browsing on a website, the user can also receive cookies on the terminal that are sent from different websites or web servers (so-called "third parties"), which may contain certain elements (i.e. images, maps, sounds, specific links to pages of other domains) on the site that the user is visiting.

3. Cookies management:

In any case, the Controller informs you that you can prevent the installation of any type of cookie through the settings of your browser. However, in the event that you choose to delete or refuse session and security cookies, the Data Controllers may not, for technical reasons, security and/or fraud prevention, provide the services on the website.

We also inform you that you can always delete the cookies installed on your device through the settings on your browser.

In relation to the treatments described in this Information, as a data subject you may, as provided by European Regulation 679/2016, exercise your rights under Articles 15 to 21 and, specifically:

- Right of access - Article 15 GDPR: the right to obtain from the controller confirmation as to whether or not personal data concerning him or her are being processed, and, where that is the case, access to the personal data, including a copy thereof.
- Right to rectification - Article 16 GDPR: the right to obtain from the controller without undue delay the rectification of inaccurate personal data concerning him or her; and /or the right to have incomplete personal data completed
- right to erasure (right to be forgotten) - Article 17 GDPR: the right to have, without undue delay, their personal data erased.

- Right of restriction - Article 18 GDPR: You have a limited right of restriction of processing of your personal data by a data controller, when:

1. you have objected to processing of your data under Article 21, or where you have contested the accuracy of your data. In these cases, the restriction applies until the data controller has determined the accuracy of the data, or the outcome of your objection

2. you can request restriction relates to processing which is unlawful. In these cases, if you do not want the data controller to delete your information, you can request restriction of the personal data instead.

3. you require data for the purpose of a legal claim. In this case, you can request restriction even where the data controller no longer needs the data.

4. the data subject has objected to processing pursuant to Article 21 pending the verification whether the legitimate grounds of the controller override those of the data subject.

- Right to data portability - Article 20 GDPR: The data subject shall have the right to receive the personal data concerning him or her, which he or she has provided to a controller, in a structured, commonly used and machine-readable format and have the right to transmit those data to another controller without hindrance from the controller to which the personal data have been provided. Plus, the data subject shall have the right to have the personal data transmitted directly from one controller to another, where technically feasible.
- Right to object - Article 21 GDPR: The data subject shall have the right to object, on grounds relating to his or her particular situation, at any time to processing of personal data concerning him or her which is based on, including profiling based on those provisions. ²The controller shall no longer process the personal data unless the controller demonstrates compelling legitimate grounds for the processing which override the interests, rights and freedoms of the data subject or for the establishment, exercise or defense of legal claims. Where personal data are processed for direct marketing purposes, the data subject shall have the right to object at any time to processing of personal data concerning him or her for such marketing, which includes profiling to the extent that it is related to such direct marketing.

The above-mentioned rights may be exercised towards the Data Controller by contacting the references mentioned above. Any communication and any actions taken shall be provided free of charge. Where requests from a data subject are manifestly unfounded or excessive, in particular because of their repetitive character, the controller may either: charge a reasonable fee taking into account the administrative costs of providing the information or communication or taking the action requested; or refuse to act on the request.

Right to lodge a Complaint: every data subject shall have the right to lodge a complaint with a supervisory authority, for the protection of personal data, www.garanteprivacy.it

Right of Revocation: The data subject shall have the right to withdraw his or her consent at any time. The withdrawal of consent shall not affect the lawfulness of processing based on consent before its withdrawal
